GUIDANCE COUNSELORS:

Are you aware of the executive careers offered young women by the Army?

The Army wants you to have full information on the opportunities available to College Graduates in the Women's Army Corps.

FOR YOUNG WOMEN who want to start their careers on the executive side of the desk, the WAC offers commissions both as second and first lieutenants to qualified college graduates 20-33. Challenging jobs of responsibility and decision are open in the following career fields: Personnel and Administration, Intelligence, Information and Education, Civil Affairs and Military Government, Legal and Legislative, Comptroller, Public Information, Logistics, Training and Special Services.

Besides her executive job, the WAC officer enjoys all the rank, pay and prestige of a commissioned Army officer, plus the chance for exciting foreign assignments, a 30-day paid vacation every year and a full social life.

For the college junior who is attracted by the promising executive opportunities available to an officer in the WAC, and who wants to know more about it, the new 4-week summer training program at Fort McClellan, Alabama serves the dual purpose of affording the Army and its prospective officer an opportunity to become acquainted. Entrance into this program does not obligate the participant to any future course of action.

Why not send today for your copies of guidance booklets on this important career? In doing so, you will not only be helping young women seeking a rewarding future, but you will also be helping your country in its defense effort. Simply clip and mail the coupon below or telephone your local Army Recruiting Station, where an Army representative will be glad to cooperate with you in every way possible.
